

Promolding will design, develop, industrialise and transform your innovative idea into a successful product. We do not limit ourselves to existing methods but look at the boundaries of what is possible with polymers and how we can support your success.

Our business model often leads to new spin-offs, which conquer a new place in the market with a new product-market combination. Promolding has a key role in the realisation of the product.

www.promolding.nl